A Note From The Editor

“

There are places I'll remember, all my life though some have changed. Some forever not for better, some have gone and some remain. All these places have their moments, with lovers and friends I still can recall. Some are dead and some are living, in my life I've loved them all. -The Beatles

This year has been a unifying one. The impressive way that the Salve community has pulled together in this past year shows that we are able to get through anything together. Not often are we able to stop and appreciate our beautiful surroundings. I hope that this yearbook has captured some of your favorite places.

I would like to thank so many people who have helped in the production of this book. A huge extended thanks to Norval Garnett, our Jostens representative, to the entire yearbook staff and of course to Kristin Stahl and Michelle Brais. Also, a very special thanks to the assistant editor Julie Scansaroli. Without all of your encouragement and support, this book would never have been completed! Thanks for everything!

To all graduates, good luck in your future endeavors. May you be happy and very successful wherever life may lead you.
Good luck to all!

Tami Fontaine, Editor

A Message from the President

SALVE
UNIVERSITY

The future is connected to the foundation of the past. As your experiences at Salve Regina become part of your past, you will know that your Salve education has prepared you well for joy, challenge, discovery and adventure. Each and every member of your class has been changed through your experiences at Salve Regina. I pray that your time at the University will always be remembered as a time when you experienced compassion, hospitality, freedom, a deep respect for the dignity of each individual and the true Mercy Spirit.

The devastation and loss of thousands of innocent lives resulting from the violent acts of aggression against our democratic society on September 11, 2001, changed our lives. While each of us was deeply saddened, our hearts and minds were immediately drawn to console the tens of thousands of family members and friends of those innocent victims. In reaching out to them we found ourselves reaching out and consoling those closest to each of us. Many of us discovered, for the first time, our most valuable assets—family and friends. We further realized how important it is to fully live and treasure each moment of our lives.

While our campus brims with cultural history and physical beauty, events during the fall of 2001 demonstrated that the most precious gift we share is the gift of friendship. Salve Regina is a community of individuals who feel genuine love and concern for one another. Many cherished and profound relationships have been formed at Salve Regina. I pray that the grace and tradition of our environment and the care, compassion and concern that you have experienced during your student years will strengthen you and serve you well throughout your life.
